Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: During the interview availability of the claims over the prior art of record was discussed. Agreed, the prior art of record does not teach a noise countermeasure database comprising a circuit information check item table used to check whether circuit elements value transmitted from a user terminal exceeds a predetermined value, and to record a result thereof; and a circuit requisite information table including recorded circuit requisite information which is required to prevent the circuit elements value from exceeding the predetermined value; and that a processor is configured to access said recorded circuit requisite information from said circuit requisite information table and generate noise countermeasure list information based on said registered noise countermeasure information and said recorded circuit requisite information. Further, changes to the claim language was discussed in order to clarify patentable subject matter and avoid 35 USC 112 issues. Finally, the Representative gave authorization for the Examiner Amendment to amend the claims to thereby place the claims into conditions of allowance.
